EUFOR Rescue

Pages 10 & 11
Dear readers of EUForum and comrades of EUFOR,

Today, 19th March, I took over the responsibilities of Chief of Staff EUFOR. For the next six months I will serve in this capacity with pride and respect. I know that I have inherited from my predecessor a professional team and we will continue to do our best for the Commander of EUFOR and this mission in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

At the same time I will be the head of the German contingent within the mission. These 120 Germans, brave men and women, civilians and military, dedicate their service to this country. We are part of an international community which contributes to a safe and secure environment in the region.

I am honored to stand here as a soldier and also as a messenger for the European Union in a mission, which continues to be complex and challenging. As a career soldier of 38 years I am well aware of your collective experience which will be invaluable to me and the mission.

Born in 1953 I joined the Federal Armed Forces in 1972, served as platoon leader and a Deputy of the commander of an NCO Training and security squadron. After receiving my master degree in Business Economics, I became an Air Traffic Controller in the Fighter Wing 71 “Richthofen”. During the period 1985 to 1987 I participated the General Staff Officers Course in Hamburg, several posts at troop level, command level and ministerial level followed. Further studies of security Policy and arms control in Geneva enriched my military life. This enabled me to become the Executive Manager for Comprehensive Security Policy in the Federal College for Security Policy Studies in Bonn. My career seems to be orient-ed to the intersection between the military and politics. I served in NATO headquarters as Chief of the Cabinet of the Chairman Military Committee, at that time General Klaus Naumann, from 1996 to 1999. I had the privi-lege to serve as branch chief Military Policy in the Federal Chancellery in Berlin from 2003 to 2007 before I became the Commander of the German Air force Training Command in Cologne in 2007. The command, which comprises all air force training facilities in Germany and abroad, is made up of some 10,500 men and women. I will return to this command at the end of the mission.

I thought I owe you this short note, so that we become acquainted with each other. I am looking forward to meeting and working with you all.
I am OF-3 Major Bruce Foster and as the new EUFOR Spokesperson I am delighted to have been given the opportunity to explain how EUFOR provides a safe and secure environment for all the people of BiH. A Royal Marine with 19 years service, I have been lucky enough to deploy world-wide and have been told on numerous occasions that I have a face for radio. I look forward to meeting you, so please call Butmir Extension 5216 and the Press Office team will help you to tell your stories.
On 12th April 2010 COM EUFOR, Major General Bernhard Bair, was delighted to visit schools in Sarajevo as part of the EUFOR Schools’ Competition. Said General Bair: “The youth of Bosnia and Herzegovina are our future peacekeepers and it is super to see them using art to express their hopes for their nation to join the European Union.” The winners of this year’s competition can look forward to trips to Slovenia, Hungary, Austria or Turkey. Additionally, EUFOR and NATO contributory nations are donating individual prizes. Last year’s winners enjoyed fascinating trips to France, Germany, Hungary and Slovenia where they had the opportunity to learn about the European Union at first hand.

In April, a Joint Defence Industry Factory, (DIF) inspection team, made up of EUFOR HQ JMA and NATO HQ SA personnel, conducted a comprehensive investigation into the past and current affairs of the Defence Industry Factory UNIS PRETIS d.d. Vogosca, Sarajevo. Led by JMA MOVCON & DIF Inspector, Maj Alexander Bauer, the team of JMA Ammunition Technical Officer, Mr. Jim Carr, Technical Specialist Mr. Dejan Vickovic and NATO Equipment / Logistic Advisor Lt Col. James Cook considered the safety and security of the Unis Pretis facility and assessed the factory’s capacity to dispose of unstable and surplus ammunition for the Armed Forces of BiH.

Unis Pretis d.d. is located in a small valley, 10 km North of Sarajevo and consists of approximately 200 facilities spread over 4 km. Not all facilities are presently in use as various buildings have been rented to other companies and large parts of the infrastructure were destroyed by bombing during the ’92 to ’95 War in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Pre war, Unis Pretis was the largest artillery ammunition manufacturer in Europe. The Company has large amounts of explosives on its premises and also the capability to destroy unsafe or surplus ammunition. In the past three years, Unis Pretis has destroyed more than 1,270 tons of AFBiH surplus ammunition through a UNDP sponsored ammunition destruction program.

The inspection started with a thorough briefing by the Unis Pretis management followed by Major Alexander Bauer outlining the procedures for the inspection. The Inspection team then split into two groups to address firstly the security aspects of the site and then secondly to look at transportation issues and the destruction procedures of the past three years.

Presently, Unis Pretis has, depending on ammunition type, a destruction capacity of approximately 1,800 to 2,400 tons per year. The destruction of the surplus ammunition is a prerequisite for NATO membership therefore this represents a significant contribution towards this goal. During the review of procedures between the Pretis management and DIF Inspection Team various options were scoped to further improve Unis Pretis capabilities to destroy surplus ammunition and it was noted that there had been a significant improvement in the storage conditions of explosives and ammunition.

On conclusion of the visit, the Joint Inspection Team thanked the management of Unis Pretis for their excellent cooperation and Major Alexander Bauer emphasised the importance of transparency in the ammunition destruction process. This successful joint inspection under JMA lead is another great example for the effective liaison between EUFOR and NATO Forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

With a shattered left thigh, internal bleeding and in shock, Petar Golijanin’s fellow survivors realized that he had no more than hours to live. At the very least he expected to lose his leg. The trip into Bosnia and Herzegovina’s Zelengora mountains to film a documentary about the region’s natural beauty had descended into horror as an avalanche had swept away the party of 4 and trapped them in freezing temperatures at an altitude of 1500m. On the night of 20th March, darkness fell rapidly and the nearest habitation was 20km away through knee high snow. Dragging their frightened colleague to safety would not therefore be an option. Frantic cell phone calls to the Bosnian emergency services initiated a rescue operation by a EUFOR helicopter based at Camp Butmir near Sarajevo. Says the rescue coordinator Lt Col Herbert Santner: “The local authorities are not equipped to fly at night so the calls were passed to the EU Police Unit who immediately contacted EUFOR’s Joint Operations Centre where I am the Chief of Air Operations. The avalanche survivors were equipped with GPS so we were able to establish their exact location via SMS messaging. Normally we would launch an Alloutte III helicopter which is on 90 minutes standby throughout the hours of darkness but the forest in which the survivors were sheltering had trees 30m tall and the winch on the Alloutte is only good for 25m. Instead I decided to scramble a Sikorsky S70-A-42 Blackhawk which is the export version of the American military’s UH60L. With more powerful engines and a winch that can lift up to 272Kg and operate down to 82m we could rescue all the survivors in a single, rapid mission. My Blackhawk cruises fast at 120 knots (200km/h) and I concentrated at maintaining at least 150m clearance from the rising ground. Captain Schuller takes up the story:

“To help me, I have a radar altimeter which bleeps and warns me to pull-up if we fly a bit low. The helicopter has a state of the art glass cockpit which means that the instrumentation and navigation is straightforward using large computer generated displays and I can concentrate on flying as fast and safely as possible. It was a clear night so the Night Vision Goggles worked well from the ambient star light. Within 25 minutes we were approaching the target area and the crew made their last minute preparations by adjusting harnesses and checking their survival equipment. Alerted by the thumping beat of the approaching rotor blades the avalanche survivors lit a fire and flashed their torches and I was able to bring the aircraft into steady hover above tree canopy very quickly. First to leave the warmth of the helicopter’s cabin and descend on the winch was Warrant Officer First Class Willie Reich. With 25 years of experience as a mountain leader he was able to assess the conditions on the ground and prepare those able to walk for extraction. Next down the wire thread was the crew doctor Marcus Osarowsky and Warrant Officer First Class Herbert Rindler. Herbert is normally a flight engineer and trained paramedic operating with Alloutte IIIs but faced with the emergency, needs must, and the hybrid crew proved to be a resounding success on the night. Between them they eased the relieved casualty into a special vacuum rescue bag and stretcher that immobilized his broken leg and shielded him from the freezing downwash whipped up by the rotor blades. Only 3 hours after the first call to the emergency services, the Blackhawk was touching down outside Sarajevo’s main hospital and a tearful family was reunited safely. Thankfully due to the prompt action by all those involved in the rescue the surgeons managed to save Petar’s leg and it is anticipated that he will make a full recovery in due course.

JMA Inspection of Uzamnica ASS

On 25th March 2010 a Joint Military Affairs (JMA) inspection was conducted in Uzamnica Ammunition and Storage Site (ASS) in Visegrad under the leadership of Chief JMA, Colonel Holzer. He was accompanied by JMA’s subject matter expert Major Necmi Genc, Chief Verification Unit, Mr. Dejan Vickovic, JMA Liaison Officer and Ms. Jugoslava Siljak, Interpreter.

In this inspection JMA also had a “guest”, Major Winie Scheepers, Policy and Plans Officer. His goal was to obtain information about the current situation of ASS and WSS after the last amendments scheduled in EUFOR plan and if necessary to amend plans accordingly.

Speaking about the general characteristics of the Uzamnica ASS Visegrad we can say the following: this site was a target during NATO air raids, but was empty at that time. BIH provided funds for minimal repairs.

From the JMA’s perspective, the goal of the inspection was to observe the latest situation of a site with poor infrastructure and to track progress. Generally we can say that the inspection was extremely positive. Said Colonel Holzer: “We were very pleased to observe some progress as a result of intensive efforts by EUFOR and the AFBIH’s endeavors to comply with the work schedule”. According to information obtained from the AFBIH personnel they will carry out the long expected transportation of unstable ammunition and its disposal during April and May and try to finish as soon as possible. Initial preparations have already been completed and are expected to continue.

We hope that all these efforts will be a beginning and we take one more step towards our main goal, a Safe and Secure Environment (SASE) in Bosnia and Herzegovina guided by cooperation between EUFOR and AFBIH.

From 29th to 31st March 2010 training in Check Point Control Operations was held for an MP Platoon of Armed Forces of BiH (AFBiH) in Camp Butmir. The MP Platoon of the Tactical Support Brigade is made up of 29 personnel (1 Officer, 4 NCOs and 24 Soldiers). The twin aims of the training were to firstly, practice checkpoint controlling techniques needed when an MP Platoon assumes the responsibility of physical security of a contingent or controlling traffic on the road outside of the compound. Secondly, ensure that AFBiH MP Personnel have the required skills to conduct checkpoint control.

The MP Platoon was given an overview on Checkpoint Control Operations (CCO) by Lt Juan Antonio Sanches Anton, Commander of Spanish Coy. He highlighted the common mistakes conducted in Checkpoint Control activities and the importance of obstacles used to stop suspicious vehicles. He also stressed cooperation with other Security Forces and Intelligence Services with the focus on practical skills.

Alpha Platoon of the IPU supervised practical training activities in the field. These were based on different scenarios related to checking both routine and suspicious vehicles. Instructors demonstrated the controlling techniques needed to be conducted while checking the vehicles and this was followed by a practical exercise for the AFBiH participants.

COM IPU, Colonel Jose Manuel Santiago Marin, along with Lieutenant Colonel Emmanuel Gerber, DCOM IPU and Major Yavuz ASIK, NATO/NAT Intelligence Advisor observed the training of the MP Platoon in the field. On completion the IPU Commander addressed the platoon regarding the importance of continuous and persistent training in the field. He pointed out that it was his pleasure to provide training support for AFBiH.

This training activity was the second in a series of events on a training programme in Check Point Control for the different personnel of the MP Battalion. The first one had been held in Rajlovac Barracks on 18th January. The next topic will cover “Military Operations in Urban Area” and is being planned for April. The Sustained Training Program for the MP Platoon is one example of a win-win situation that the AFBiH and EUFOR/NATO have achieved together.

On 20th March 2010 the “5K” run for the Pegasus trophy took place. "5K" usually refers to a road race or cross country event. Much of the distance’s popularity is due to the challenge it offers to both novices and accomplished professionals. It is a distance race that demands a great deal of endurance as well as speed. Tactics also play a key role, and the combination makes it attractive to many. Ten teams start the race, with a total of forty runners and ten teams finish it, accomplishing the Pegasus trophy moto – the real meaning is not to win, is to participate. It was a fantastic event, showing that the IPU is a family, full of cohesion, Esprit de Corps, mutual aid, loyalty, perseverance and determination in all IPU elements.

The EUFOR Historical office has been established at the beginning of the EUFOR Althea mission in Bosnia. The primary purpose of the office was archiving of all items of historical interest in order to keep track of the EUFOR’s history in the future. This way would be possible to track the first peacekeeping mission led by EU, as well as for the future analysis and research, lessons-learned, assuring that no information is lost. On the other hand, archiving of EUFOR’s activities would provide planning assistance to daily activities and future operations.

Therefore, we are conducting our main tasks by preserving and storing information of historical significance as well as serving EUFOR members in all perspectives on a daily basis as proactive source of information.

The Historical office team has three members. Ms. Azra Pecanin (SWE) is the office’s supervisor and person who deals with all classified materials. Other two members are Mr. Muhidin Tutic and Mr. Dzenan Hadzovic, who operate with unclassified materials and also secondary activities such as historical presentations and historical battle tours.

Historical Office offers its services in holding presentations in various subjects and different periods of Bosnia and Herzegovina and its history. This includes ancient history from Roman times up to the war in BiH and post war consequences, together with overviews of general and detailed events in the above mentioned period.

Historical battle tours are conducted BiH wide, including tours to Sarajevo, Srebrenica, Mostar, Bihac, Jajce, Banja Luka and eastern Bosnia. Similar to presentations, tours are part of ongoing EUFOR’s training, but could also be scheduled separately upon request.

Having in mind all above mentioned, the historical office maintains good cooperation with all elements and divisions within EUFOR including MNBN and IPU, but also other organizations such as NHQSA, EUPM, OHR, ICTY etc.

“Continue with forwarding no longer used documents for archiving in the Historical Office/central archive, without your inputs there is no output. Secondly, you have a great opportunity to learn more about BiH and you can discover more with the help of the Historical Office - use it”, said Azra Pecanin when asked to send a message to EUFOR Forum readers.

He had the chance to see the miners working conditions while working inside the tunnels. They had to go through the narrow tunnels of the mine approximately 400-500 m under the ground. It was a breathtaking experience to witness the harsh working conditions. It was also an opportunity to show that EUFOR is with the people where ever they are!

On 26th March 2010 after their daily duties, LOT Travnik cooked for 60 elderly people of the old age home “KUCA NJEGE” in Novi Travnik. All the team members were enthusiastic about the cooking session. “KUCA NJEGE” is a multi ethnic elderly home with multi ethnic staff so this was a good example for BIH.

In the LOT Travnik house there is a Dutch person who is an older version of Jamie Oliver. Their chef made a delicious pasta for the residents and staff. Some of the residents were asking for second helpings. The staff of the “KUCA NJEGE” were very happy that the LOT cooked for the residents because they then had more time to devote to their care. They asked LOT to come every day. Overall it has proven to be a successful evening.

Initiator of the action was OR-7 van der Lelie. He was directly supported by OR-7 Hendriks, OR-7 Hersevoort and OF-1 Rietveld and indirect support was provided by OR-7 Kruik-Blom, OF-1 de Bra, OR-8 van Meel and OF-2 Strooper.
