EUFOR supports Kids Festival 2012

The annual Sarajevo Kids’ Festival is the largest independent youth event in South East Europe. Over 40,000 children from all over Bosnia and Herzegovina (BiH) have attended the annual event since 2004. The Festival contains a range of entertainment and educational activities including workshops, booths, quizzes, games, movies, performances, clowns and much more. Altogether these activities have provided the young people of BiH with an unforgettable experience.

EUFOR has made an important and valuable contribution to this year’s Festival. Its Mine Information Coordination Cell (MICC), together with soldiers from Turkey and the Armed Forces of BiH (AFBiH), raised awareness of the mine situation in BiH. After a talk by AFBiH, the children had the chance to see how mine searching works in practice. Turkish soldiers demonstrated how long it takes and the care needed when using the metal detector “Vallon VMM-3” to search for mines. Hungarian, Turkish and Austrian soldiers from the Multinational Battalion ran a very popular and enjoyable basketball stand. By scoring three times in succession the children had the chance to win a “EUFOR – basketball”. This was definitely a Hot Spot at this year’s Kids’ Festival!

The Kids’ Festival and the “EUFOR School Competition”, held earlier this year, are part EUFOR’s youth strategy which aims to create reconciliation and confidence building amongst BiH’s younger generation.

Hello All,

I am Lieutenant Commander David Collins and I am your new media spokesperson working in the Public Affairs Office in EUFOR HQ.

Like my predecessor I am a British Officer from the Royal Navy. As a training manager by trade, I have had a varied career, including assignments at the Royal Naval School of Electro Mechanical Engineering, the Royal Naval Leadership Academy and more recently the Defence Media Operations Centre. Prior to this I served in the aircraft carrier HMS Illustrious as the Public Relations Officer. So in theory at least, I have arrived at Camp Butmir with some experience of how the media works, albeit mainly the British media.

Now that I have settled in and got my bearings so to speak, I intend to get around the camp and meet as many of you as possible. From my experience the best stories in the media and for that matter everywhere are all about people and I am sure that you all have some fantastic stories to tell. I would therefore very much welcome your ideas and encourage you to send in articles and pictures for our Eurfor Forum magazine.

I look forward to seeing you around the camp.

From 16 to 19 April 2012 the Multinational Battalion (MNBN) under the command of Lieutenant Colonel Thomas Holzbauer conducted an exercise in guarding weapon and ammunition storage sites and protecting ammunition during transportation in the area of Manjaca and Glamoc.

The exercise initially involved the Turkish Police Unit having to regain control of the ammunition storage site. This involved dealing with several small demonstrations and terrorist outrages.

This was followed by the Austrian and Hungarian Companies taking responsibility for the movement of the ammunition from Manjaca to Glamoc. The Turkish Company then took on responsibility for the security of the ammunition once it has reached Glamoc by setting up both an outer and inner cordon. The Air to Ground Surveillance and Reconnaissance (AGSR) was used to help provide good situational awareness around the vicinity of Glamoc.

Despite some bad weather conditions the MNBN achieved a great deal in the exercise, working hard to develop their collective skills to re-establish their freedom of movement whilst securing and protecting ammunition.

In the article below Major László UJHÁZY from the Policy and Plans team at EUFOR explains how NATO has evolved since the end of the Cold War, including its Partnership for Peace (PfP) programme – which Bosnia and Herzegovina joined in 2006 – and how this is connected to EUFOR.

Major UJHÁZY joined the Hungarian Army in 1983 as a conscript before his university studies. After gaining an MA in History and English he was drafted again as a reserve officer cadet. He was commissioned in 1992. He has held a variety of appointments including teaching Military English at the PfP Military Language Training Centre in Budapest to 2009. In 2011 he defended his PhD in Security Studies. He arrived at Camp Butmir in May this year.

EUFOR and NATO`s Partnership for Peace (PfP) Programme

The world has changed immensely in the past two decades. The Cold War has ended, the Soviet Union no longer exists; in fact, many former Soviet Republics are either already NATO Member States, or would like to be members in the near future. The same refers to the Warsaw Treaty Organisation. Not only has it been disbanded, but most of its former members are a part of the North Atlantic Alliance. Equally important is the way an Organisation once set up for collective defence operations (CDO) is now focusing more on crisis response operations (CRO), mainly peace support operations (PSO).

In its first Strategic Concept after the Cold War, in 1991, NATO had already committed itself towards cooperation and dialogue. The Partnership for Peace (PfP) programme was launched in January 1994, along with the Mediterranean Dialogue (MD) initiative in this spirit. The PfP programme was enhanced at the Spring Meeting of NATO Foreign Ministers in Sintra, Portugal in May 1997. It serves as the basis for cooperation between NATO and Partner countries, most of whom belonged to the former Warsaw Treaty Organisation, or neutral countries like Austria, Finland, Ireland, Sweden and Switzerland.

Bosnia and Herzegovina joined the PfP programme in December 2006. Cooperation focuses on democratic, institutional and defence reforms. Since April 2008 BiH has been involved in an Intensified Dialogue with NATO on its membership ambitions and related reforms.

The most important goals of the PfP are to increase transparency in national defence planning and military budgeting, to ensure democratic control of national armed forces, and to help develop Partner country forces that are interoperable with those of NATO member states, mainly in the field crisis response operations. NATO also consults with the 22 PfP countries on security issues and enables Partner countries to participate in NATO-led operations. The Programme can also be used as a vehicle to full membership in the Alliance. Today twelve former PfP countries, including countries from the Western Balkan region have become members of NATO.

Bosnia and Herzegovina joined the PfP programme in December 2006. Cooperation focuses on democratic, institutional and defence reforms. Since April 2008 BiH has been involved in an Intensified Dialogue with NATO on its membership ambitions and related reforms. Welcoming progress made in its reform efforts, in April 2010, the Allies formally invited the country to join the Membership Action Plan (MAP) – the Alliance’s programme of advice, assistance and practical support tailored to the specific requirements of countries wishing to join the NATO – with one important condition: the first Annual National Programme under the MAP will only be accepted by NATO once a key remaining issue concerning immovable defence property has been resolved.

EUFOR ALTHEA, alongside NATO HQ Sarajevo are the legal successors of the Stabilisation Force (SFOR). Since 2010 EUFOR is tasked to support the Armed Forces of BiH in the areas of capacity-building and training and EUFOR ALTHEA is also a part of EU’s comprehensive approach to support the country’s Euro-Atlantic integration.

The practical part of the first basic ammunition course for AF BiH took place in the ammunition storage site at Krupa. As the lead nation for handling ammunition, the training was delivered by the Austrian MT.

Between 18 April to 4 May 2012 15 students, who had previously completed introductory theoretical training, undertook a range of activities including: hazard classification and division codes, aboveground ammunition storage regulations, ammunition stacks, ammunition packaging and labelling, ammo storage stack cards, separation distances, ammo fire fighting principles and procedures, safety principles and regulations, construction of
On the 7 June 2012, Joint Military Affairs along with the AF BiH conducted a workshop entitled “Preparation for AF Mine Action Strategy 2009-2019 Revision”. The aim was to analyze the implementation of the strategy and executive plans related to demining operations.

The workshop was opened by COS EUFOR, Brigadier General Ernő Péter SIPOSS and hosted the representatives from strategic, operational and tactical command levels in the AF BiH.

At the beginning of the workshop, the participants familiarized themselves with EUFOR’s assessment of the three year countermine activities. They were then divided into several working groups comprising representatives from various military institutions. Each group was asked to evaluate the implementation of the respective goals of the strategy and consider the possibility of how to enhance demining operations in BiH.

Everybody was then given the chance to express their opinions on the strengths and weaknesses in mine action activities. A number of good suggestions were made on how to improve the planning process and increase efficiency in the field.

The participants agreed that the idea of the workshop was a great opportunity to share opinions, exchange experiences and provide better understanding of the difficulties faced by military and government institutions conducting countermine activities. The AF representatives were pleased that assessments and analyses made during the workshop would provide an excellent basis for the forthcoming revision of AF Mine Action Strategy for the period 2009-2019.

The main idea of this motion orienteering is to enter (run, jog or walk) from one control point to the next one by using the shortest route (roads / streets / paths) by using exact map reading.
Start / Finish point will be in front of GYM building.
Every person will be given in Start a photo map, where the orienteering course is printed.
Every person will also be given in Start a competition orienteering card (see attached photos below) for marking on correct control points. First marking into a square number 1 ... etc

Control points are to be visited in chronological order: Start → 1 → 2 → 3 etc.
Control points are placed on easy and visible points near street corners, near road crossings, building corners etc.
Control points are marked with white/orange control signs, see attached photo below.
On control point you can find a control puncher, see attached photos below.
Every control point has also a separate verification number, which is also printed into a map.
When the right control point is found and verification accomplished, a person makes a marking on his competition card by using a control puncher.

Time will be not measured by organizers, but everybody can use their own watch to calculate time used on a course.
Length of orienteering course: about 2 km’s
Number of control points: 9

On 31 May and 1 June 15 Austrian soldiers from the helicopter detachment trained 3 soldiers from the AF BiH plus members of the rescue club Spasavalaca.
After some classroom instruction, the soldiers undertake some practical training on how to use a winch. They were then introduced to AB 212 and Alouette3 helicopters.
In the morning of 1 June the training focused on boarding at Archer Base. COS EUFOR observed some of the training and delighted with the engagement of the AF BiH soldiers the members of the rescue club Spasavalaca and the professionalism of the Austrian soldiers.
In the afternoon the training moved to mount Trebevic. Here the participants demonstrated their new capabilities during an accident exercise. The training officer and Austrian Alouette3 pilot captain Urf praised the trainees for their outstanding concentration. He stressed that this type of training will be very useful if EUFOR and BiH need to work together in the future.
