Exercise QUICK RESPONSE provided a robust proof of concept, confirming the UK Intermediate Reserve Company’s ability to deploy in short order. It also highlighted the advantages of establishing close coordination and liaison from the outset to enable the maximum amount of concurrent activity at all levels. The accomplishment of this deployment was no mean test of the sub-unit’s ability and was achieved successfully thanks to the support of the EUFOR HQ staff and a number of key enablers who augmented the Company.

The initial exercise phase clearly demonstrated the demand placed on the key resource of time; a demand that undoubtedly would be magnified in the event of a full operational deployment. On arrival in Theatre and in order to ensure the rapid achievement of mission readiness by the IR Company there is a clear need to conduct Company level battle preparation, especially with regards vehicle and equipment preparation, concurrent to the reception process and integration with the Multinational Battalion.

My second observation concerns the unquestionable benefits gained from the conduct of combined training with the Multinational Battalion and the AFBiH, namely the enhancement of mutual understanding and interoperability at the lower tactical level. The experience gained even at the basic tactical levels is equally relevant when placed in the uncertain European and indeed global security context in which we all operate; a context in which the application of effective alliances, and at lower levels the execution of effective combined tactical actions, will be vital to the achievement of operational success.

The exercise exposed the subtleties in language and terminology that we all must be live to, the native speakers all the more so, to ensure effective communication in a multinational operating environment.

Furthermore the differing tactics, techniques and procedures employed by the IR Coys within the Multinational Battalion were highlighted, all derived from their respective experiences. Developing a good understanding of these differing approaches to the same problem set, and the implications they have on our own way of operating, is critical to the delivery of tactical effect. The exercise provides the ideal platform to fully test and understand these approaches, thereby enhancing the combined capability of EUFOR’s Multinational Battalion.

To conclude, the gaelic saying, formerly the motto of the 51st Highland Division, encapsulates the benefits of the professional relationships developed during the course of this exercise: La a’Blair s’math n cairdean “Friends are good on the day of battle”.

On the 10th of September the Acting Chief of the Polish Armed Forces Operational Command Brigadier General Andzej Tuz visited EUFOR Camp Butmir. He met COM EUFOR Major General Johann Luif during an office call, and spoke about the Polish contribution to EUFOR Althea Capacity Building and Training.

Poland contributes personnel in the headquarters of EUFOR as Military Police within Camp Butmir, and also contributes to the Capacity Building & Training effort. Polish personnel instruct and mentor the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina in areas such as the movement of military vehicles. This assists them as they develop their ability to conduct Peace Support Operations abroad and support authorities in disaster relief within Bosnia and Herzegovina.

On the 26th of October, Chilean Major General Ricardo Menanteau met Commander EUFOR Major General Johann Luif at Camp Butmir. Greeted with an honour guard assembled from soldiers of the EUFOR Multinational Battalion, Major General Menanteau then proceeded to an office call with Commander EUFOR. During the office call the Chilean contribution to EUFOR was discussed, including the presence the nation has within the EUFOR headquarters and further afield. Chile has 6 personnel within Camp Butmir, and a further 8 located in a Liaison and Observation team in Banja Luka. Chile is one of 21 nations contributing men and women to EUFOR.

On the 28th of October His Excellency Manoel Antonio Da Fonseca Couto Gomes Pereira, Brazilian ambassador, visited Camp Butmir. During his visit he had an office call with COM EUFOR, who described EUFOR’s objectives and current projects.
September and October Medal Parades

On the 29th of September and the 29th of October, EUFOR held medal parades to award the Operation Althea medal to outgoing members of the EUFOR mission.

The September parade was led by EUFOR Chief of Staff Brigadier General Zoltán Mihóczá, who said ‘Each one of you represents a practical and positive affirmation of support from your governments to EUFOR and the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina’ as he addressed soldiers from the Former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Romania, Spain, Switzerland, Turkey and the United Kingdom.

COM EUFOR Major General Johann Luif led the October parade, and passed on his thanks to the soldiers families, acknowledging the sacrifice they make when their partners are away with the EUFOR mission.

From the 13th until the 22nd of October EUFOR conducted Exercise Quick Response 15.

The purpose of this exercise was to demonstrate the ability of EUFOR to bring its intermediate reserve troops from around Europe into Bosnia and Herzegovnia, and also to provide an opportunity for the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovnia (AFBiH) to train alongside EUFOR.

The training was built around a fictional scenario which required the international force to conduct peace support operations in the host nation.

Taking part in the event alongside permanent EUFOR personnel from Turkey, Hungary and Austria were additional troops from Slovakia, the United Kingdom, Bulgaria and Romania.

On the 20th of October, during the exercise, EUFOR and the AFBiH held a Distinguished Visitors Day during Exercise Quick Response 15. The event was attended by Dr. Emir Suljagić Deputy Minister of Defence for Policy and Planning and Lieutenant General Anto Jeleč Chief of the Joint Staff of the AFBiH, alongside Commander EUFOR Major General Johann Luif.

The event featured a Live Demonstration, during which the visitors witnessed a display of Peace Support Operations. The scenario for the display included EUFOR and AFBiH troops conducting crowd and riot control, dealing with minefields and casualty evacuation.

In a statement during the press conference, COM EUFOR Major General Johann Luif said,
‘EUFOR has an Executive Mandate to be ready to support the BiH authorities in the maintenance of a Safe and Secure environment if requested to do so. EUFOR has never been required to do this. However, we must ensure we are prepared to. This exercise is part of EUFOR’s routine training for this Peace Support Operations role.

Commanding Officer of the Multinational Battalion Lt Col Reinhard Bacher said,

‘The training area in Manjača was excellent, providing plenty of space for the exercise. This allowed the soldiers to train at a company level with few restrictions.

The training itself was a good experience, and provided a good opportunity to work alongside the AFBiH. I was impressed with their efforts, they were well prepared for the Peace Support Operations scenario.

At times the exercise required patience from everyone involved, but the Multinational Battalion displayed a high grade of professionalism and motivation throughout.

I was also pleased that we had the opportunity for some socialising among the different nations on the Sunday of the exercise, which provided a different environment to get to know each other’

COM EUFOR together with a Slovakian soldier
On the 22nd of October a closing ceremony was held for Exercise Quick Response 15. On Wednesday the 16th of September COM EUFOR Major General Johann Luif visited an ammunition disposal site in Glamoc. During this visit he witnessed the destruction of different types of weapon, ranging from aircraft bombs to small arms ammunition. The destruction of the ammunition was carried out by an Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina (AFBiH) team together with civilian contractors. This destruction is part of a comprehensive Master Plan of AFBiH to manage their weapon stockpiles, including the destruction of unsafe ammunition within Bosnia and Herzegovina. Careful coordination between the international agencies supporting AFBiH’s effort is a critical element of success. The coordination of activities among several of these partners at Glamoc destruction range is telling of the success of this complex project.

Mentoring and advice

EUFOR contributed to the destruction of this ammunition by providing subject matter experts who advised the AFBiH on the transport of the ammunition to the destruction site. They also made recommendations on the schedule for the destruction of the weapons, based on their risk category.

During September and October the Multinational Battalion conducted two ‘Alpine Marches’, walking in the area around Bjelašnica.

The purpose of the walks was to allow the soldiers to have some time away from their work environment to teambuild and enjoy the countryside.

The Turkish contingent conducted their walk on the 14th of September, with 103 personnel joining the trek, including some Austrian personnel.

The Hungarian MNBN Company conducted their walk on the 1st of October. Beginning in cold, foggy conditions they were soon rewarded with clear skies when they reached their objective, the peak at Bjelašnica. This was the site events during the 1984 Winter Olympics.

Lieutenant Colonel Reinhard Bacher, the commander of the MNBN said: ‘I am happy that the second alpine march worked so well. I thought all the participants performed very well in the conditions’

MAHE Exercise in Derventa

From the 28th of September until the 9th of October, a ‘Military Assistance in Humanitarian Emergencies’ (MAHE) exercise was conducted in the area around Derventa. The scenario for the exercise involved heavy rain and earthquakes, focusing on the response of the authorities to these events. Taking part in the exercise were an Engineering Battalion of the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina (AFBiH) alongside civilian agencies including the Fire Brigade, Police and Civil Protection. EUFOR provided a Mobile Monitoring Team to train the AFBiH personnel involved.

Military decision making

As the exercise started, a Crisis Centre was formed in the municipality of Derventa. The Crisis Centre responded to exercise incidents and maintained situational awareness, based on the real environment of the Derventa area. Within the Crisis Centre representatives from the military and civilian response agencies coordinated their response to the situation, aiming to build upon the ability of the different teams to work effectively together. The EUFOR Mobile Monitoring Team provided advice and mentoring on the way the AFBiH personnel made decisions during the exercise.
From the 7th of September until the 16th of October 2015, EUFOR conducted five “GEO Courses” for the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina (AFBiH) at the Tactical Support Brigade Barracks in Rajlovac. In total 7 personnel from the AF BiH participated successfully.

What is Geographic Services?

Geographic Services assist military or civilian units with geographical data, including printed or digital maps. Geographic Services collect the geographical data, use the data in Geographical Information Systems, and prepare the maps for military or civilian purposes.

Wide geographical knowledge is useful not only during operations; it is also indispensable in crisis situations to neutralize the effects of natural disasters, (fires, earthquakes, floods) and mine decontamination.

The knowledge of NATO geospatial systems increases the possibility of cooperation with multinational troops so that AFBiH are capable of participating in combined exercises, Disaster Relief and Peace Support Operations. These Geo training courses were designed to start from the very basics of Geo knowledge, such as map reading and terrain interpretation. This year the UK Embassy donated hardware and software to the GEO Cell of the AFBiH. The AF BiH GEO Cell is now able to prepare and print out their own basic maps.

Train the Trainer

The attendees of this course where trained by the EUFOR GEO Cell. Their task is to train future trainers of the AFBiH in order to assist the AFBiH to achieve a robust and self-sustainable training structure. The participants of this course are now ready to educate other personnel in this subject. During their first steps as new INSTRUCTORS, they will be mentored by the EUFOR GEO Cell.

Developing the capacity and capabilities of the AF BiH is one of the most important tasks for EUFOR. This is done by providing training, mentoring and monitoring as well as technical advice at all levels to the AFBiH.

From the 15th to the 18th of September, new personnel joining EUFOR attended Key Leader Training, a course designed to give them the information about EUFOR that they will need during their time in the mission. 18 people attended the course, receiving a certificate of completion from COS EUFOR Brigadier General Zoltán Mihócza.

Core mission knowledge

The Key Leader Training included presentations on the history and political situation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, and presentations from all the different sections of the EUFOR mission. The attendees were also given a detailed briefing on the mine threat within the country, and given a practical display on the risks. The course also included visits to Srebrenica and the ‘Tunnel of Hope’ located in Sarajevo.

Wider awareness

Speaking as he awarded certificates to the attendees, Brigadier General Zoltán Mihócza said, ‘It is crucial that every member of EUFOR appreciates not only the different aspects of EUFOR, but also the circumstances of Bosnia and Herzegovina.’

MNBN conducts combined training with AFBiH in Dubrave

From the 5th until the 9th of October, the Multinational Battalion (MNBN) of EUFOR and infantry from the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina (AFBiH) conducted combined training in Dubrave. Lead by the Capacity Building and Training branch of EUFOR, the joint training was set up to instruct soldiers tactically in peace support operation techniques.

EUFOR were represented by the Hungarian company of the MNBN, which had advisory responsibilities during the training.

The training included key topics necessary for Peace Support Operations including skills for running checkpoints and observation posts, and responding to incidents while patrolling. Alongside this the training focused on allowing the AFBiH to achieve these tasks in a multinational environment, using English language voice procedures and learning about the challenges of adapting to another nations operating procedures.

Austrian Captain Marco Spörk was part of the team that led the training, and commented, ‘The benefit of this training was the mutual sharing of information between the two forces. The AFBiH soldiers were professional and experienced. Because of their contribution combined with the well organised training programme I think this training was a success’

On the 20th of September 28 members of EUFOR and NATO took part in the Sarajevo Half Marathon, running a distance of over 21 kilometers. The event has been run since 2007, and this year a record 1,500 participants from 32 countries took part in different events on the day.

Major Sesto Terrazzini was the fastest of the NATO and EUFOR runners, completing the race in 1 hour, 29 minutes and 5 seconds.

‘To run the Sarajevo Half Marathon was a great experience, especially running in the rain! For the first time as runner I broke the wall of 1h 30’. I’m very happy and proud to have achieved something so important, representing both EUFOR and my country Italy’

On the 7th of September Turkish and Hungarian soldiers of the Multinational Battalion conducted training in the former military barracks of Kalinovik. The training was based around a fictitious scenario in which the Kalinovik barracks was an ammunition storage site, threatened by a crowd of angry civilians. The Hungarian soldiers were tasked with playing the civilians, attacking the Turkish soldiers as they defended the hazardous site.

The training required the use of an EOD team, and also required the Turkish forces to use their skills to de-escalate the situation. To improve the realism the Hungarian forces were instructed to put pressure on the Turkish soldiers, displaying aggressive behavior and refusing to leave the area.

Lieutenant Colonel Reinhard Bacher, Commander of the Multinational Battalion said after the training, ‘I am happy with the performance of the soldiers during this training. Both sides showed motivation and commitment, which is an excellent basis for worthwhile training’

Major Alexander Kovacs, the organizer of the visit to EUFOR Camp Butmir said,

‘The children were really excited at having the possibility to experience an unusual day in a military environment. EUFOR has a long lasting relationship and regular contact with the Institution, and will continue the tradition of friendship in the future”
